ONLINE SHOPPING WEBSITE

WEB DEVELOPMENT PROJECT REPORT

Project	ShopEase Online Shopping Website
Technology	HTML5 and CSS3
Project Type	Front-end / Static Website
Purpose	Educational web development project

Your everyday shopping destination.

Prepared as a simple-English guide to the project, its design, and its browser output.

1. Introduction

ShopEase is a sample online shopping website designed to display products from different categories. It includes a promotional banner, category links, featured product cards, discount labels, ratings, prices, and a contact footer. The website uses a dark navy and yellow colour theme to create a clean shopping experience. HTML5 organises the content, while CSS3 controls the visual design and layout.

2. Project Objectives

• Create a simple and attractive homepage for an online shopping website.

• Display product categories such as Electronics, Fashion, Accessories, and Footwear.

• Show product images, names, ratings, descriptions, and sample prices.

• Highlight discounts and promotional offers.

• Provide navigation links and a contact section.

• Practise HTML page structure and front-end web development.

3. Technologies Used

HTML5: Creates the structure of the page, including the header, navigation, banner, category section, product cards, images, buttons, and footer.

CSS3: Styles the page with colours, fonts, spacing, product-card layouts, buttons, shadows, and responsive behaviour.

No JavaScript in the supplied code: The HTML file links to an external stylesheet named online.css. The supplied source does not include that CSS file. The Add to Cart buttons are visual buttons and do not perform cart operations.

4. Website Sections

Navigation Bar

The header displays the ShopEase logo, Home, Categories, Products, and Contact links, a product search field, and a Cart link.

Promotional Banner

The banner displays “Big Savings Festival!”, a short message, an offer of up to 50% off, and a Shop Now link.

Shop by Category

Four category links allow visitors to browse Electronics, Fashion, Accessories, and Footwear.

Featured Products

Eight product cards display Wireless Headphones, Smart Watch, Casual Sneakers, Bluetooth Speaker, Travel Backpack, Classic Sunglasses, Casual T-Shirt, and Digital Camera.

Product Details

Each card contains a discount label, product image, product name, star rating, short description, current price, old price, and Add to Cart button.

Footer and Contact

The footer displays the ShopEase name, a short tagline, a sample support email address, and copyright information.

5. Important HTML and CSS Concepts

Header and Navigation

The header groups the logo, navigation links, search box, and cart link at the top of the page.

Anchor Links

Links such as href="#products" move the visitor to the section whose ID is products.

Images and Alt Text

The img element displays product images. The alt attribute provides a text description if an image cannot be displayed.

Product Cards

A product card groups related information such as an image, name, rating, description, price, and button.

Search Input

The input element with type="search" provides a search field in the page layout. The supplied HTML does not include search functionality.

Buttons

The Add to Cart buttons are included as interface elements. A working cart would require additional programming.

External CSS

The link element connects the HTML page to online.css, where the visual styling rules are expected to be written.

6. Website Output Screenshot

The supplied screenshot shows the ShopEase page with the navigation bar, promotional banner, category links, eight product cards, and footer.

7. How the Website Works

• The browser reads the HTML file and builds the structure of the webpage.

• The HTML file loads the external stylesheet using the link to online.css.

• CSS rules in online.css control the colours, spacing, product grid, cards, and responsive layout.

• Navigation links use section IDs to move visitors to different parts of the same page.

• Product images are loaded from the image URLs written in the img elements.

• The search field and Add to Cart buttons are present visually, but their interactive functions are not implemented in the supplied HTML.

8. Observations and Improvements

• The supplied HTML references online.css, but the CSS source file was not included. This report therefore contains the supplied HTML code only.

• Product prices, ratings, discounts, and promotional details are sample educational content.

• The search field does not filter products because no search logic is provided.

• The Add to Cart buttons do not update a cart or calculate a total.

• A future version could add product filtering, a working shopping cart, quantity selection, checkout, payment integration, and database storage.

• The product image URLs require an internet connection to load.

9. Conclusion

ShopEase demonstrates how HTML5 and CSS3 can be used to create the front end of an online shopping website. It includes product categories, a promotional banner, featured product cards, ratings, prices, and a footer. The project provides practice with HTML elements, links, images, input fields, and page organisation. Since the supplied code is a static front-end page, a working search feature, shopping cart, and checkout system would need to be developed separately.

10. Quick Viva Questions

What is the purpose of the ShopEase project?

To display products, categories, discounts, and product details in an online shopping layout.

Which technologies are used?

HTML5 and CSS3.

What is the purpose of the navigation bar?

It provides links to important sections of the website.

What does href="#products" do?

It moves the page to the section with the ID products.

Why is the alt attribute used?

It provides alternative text for an image and supports accessibility.

Does the supplied code have a working shopping cart?

No. The Add to Cart buttons are visual elements only.

What is the purpose of online.css?

It is the external CSS file intended to control the website design and layout.

Appendix A. Original HTML Source Code

The following source code is reproduced from the HTML supplied with the request. It links to an external stylesheet named online.css; that CSS file was not supplied.
